DIXON, ILLINOIS FRIDAY SEPTEMBER 6 1912.

Dixon Daily Telegraph Twenty-Ninth Year No. 210

FULTON IS SCENE OF BRUTAL MURDER

AUSTRIAN KILLED THURSDAY AFTERNOON BY FELLOW COUNTRYMAN.

MEN ENEMIES FOR SEVERAL YEARS

Murderer Is Confined in County Jail at Morrison—Coroner's Inquest Held This Afternoon.

Fulton, Ill., Sept. 6.—Special to the Telegraph—An Austrian, Nick Kjaigomah, was shot and killed here at about 3 p. m. Thursday by a fellow countryman and co-worker, Roy D. Zeogan. The murder took place during a quarrel between the two men, and it is the result of differences that have caused many fights between the men.

Zeogan calmly watched while the victim of his crime was being hurried away to the Clinton hospital, where he died in a short time, and the murderer awaited the arrival of the officers with absolutely no concern.

He was taken to Morrison, where he is now confined in the Whiteside county jail, and the coroner's inquest which is being held this afternoon, will doubtless result in his being held to the September grand jury without bail.

HARRIS MENTIONED FOR REPRESENTATIVE

WELL KNOWN DIXON MAN MAY BE NAMED BY PROGRESSIVES AT CONVENTION TOMORROW.

The senatorial convention of the progressive party of the 35th senatorial district will be held here tomorrow afternoon, the meeting to be held at the city hall. The purpose of the convention is to name a candidate for the general assembly and there is some speculation as to what action will be taken. It is understood that the Whiteside county delegates will be averse to making any nomination, while Lee and DeKalb counties favor such action.

The DeKalb county progressives want the candidate and have several of their members under consideration for the place. It is also reported that a majority of the Lee county men will favor the selection of the DeKalb countyite; but it is said a movement is on foot to present the name of Arthur G. Harris of this city for the place. Mr. Harris is chairman of the Lee county executive committee, and it is argued that his experience in campaigning in the county and the district would make him a formidable candidate.

NUN IS BURNED TO DEATH

Death Follows Explosion Caused by Striking a Match.

New York, Sept. 6.—Returning from a visit to the bed of a sick child in the factory district, Sister Stephanie, known to the families of all the factory workers of Bayonne, N. J., as their "good angel," was burned to death following an explosion caused by her striking a match to light a gas jet in a room of the convent of St. Joseph at Bayonne.

Aviator Mars Is Injured.

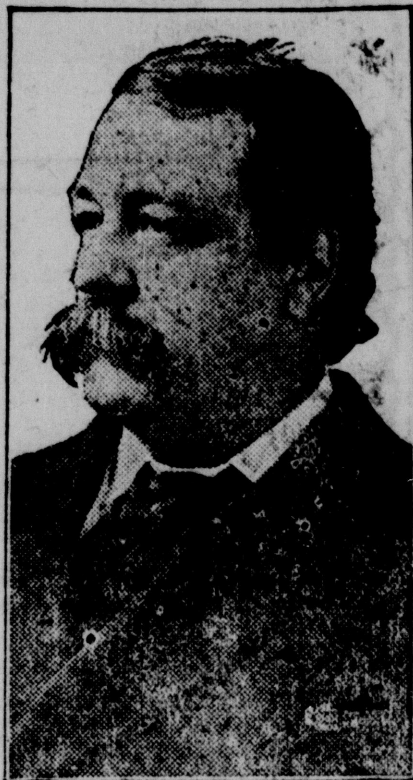

Olean, N. Y., Sept. 6.—"Bud" Mars, the aviator, is in the Olean General hospital with dangerous injuries, the result of a fall while he was making a flight at the county fair. His biplane, after rising from the half-mile track, suddenly dipped and crashed into the fence.

Undertakers' Wives Sit on Jury.

Lodi, Cal., Sept. 6.—Twelve wives of undertakers sat on a coroner's jury here and decided that Hido Yamamoto, a Japanese, had died from natural causes. They were the wives of delegates to the convention of the State Funeral Directors' association, in session at Stockton.

Mrs. Sam Watson is now in Maratowa, Mich.

SENATOR CLAPP

Senator Moses E. Clapp of Minnesota is chairman of the senate committee on privileges and elections which is investigating campaign contributions, and he declares that committee will do no whitewashing.

FARMERS SEE GANG PLOW WORK

LARGE CROWD AT CRAWFORD FARM TODAY TO SEE MODERN WAY OF TURNING SOIL.

An exceptionally large number of farmers and town people visited the Crawford farm today to witness the demonstration of the Rumley engines and Grand Detour gang plows. The big engines dragged the heavy plows through the ground rapidly, proving beyond doubt that this method is the modern way of turning the soil.

MRS. ELY ELOPES--HOTEL MAN

WIFE OF DEAD AVIATOR VISITED DIXON ASSEMBLY TWO YEARS AGO WITH HUSBAND.

Dixon people remember Mrs. Eugene Ely. She was with her husband when End Mars visited the Assembly a year ago. News comes from San Francisco that Mrs. Ely has eloped. Her husband is said to be a hotel man of the Golden Gate city.

Eugene Ely lost his life in an aeroplane last October.

WHEAT CROP SMALLEST SINCE '60

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 6.—Special to Telegraph—The wheat crop in Illinois this year is but one-third of the last year's yield, and smallest since 1860.

PROGRESSIVE MEETING.

Another progressive meeting will be held at Lee Center this evening, under the direction of Committeeman Geo. P. Miller. The speakers will be Attorney E. E. Wingert, John E. Erwin, I. F. Edwards, J. N. Watts, Chas. Self, George Stephan and A. G. Harris, chairman of the executive committee.

SON BORN.

A ten pound son was born this morning to Mr. and Mrs. John H. Fee. Mrs. Fee is at the home of her mother, Mrs. W. U. Baker. This bit of news will be pleasing to the many friends of the Fees, both in this vicinity and in California. Where the Telegraph reaches California all the admirers of this happy little family will rejoice.

LICENSED TO WED

A marriage license was issued today to Edwin H. Schlesinger and Miss Hattie M. Kessel, both of Mendota; and Eugene M. Barrett and Miss Gladys I. Puckett, both of Sterling.

AUDITOR HERE.

Auditor Cushing of the Union Brewing company of Peoria was here today checking up the books of the local depot, which is managed by Max Lett.

Five representatives of the Rumleys arrived at noon and went to the field to witness the demonstration. They were accompanied by several Russians who are touring this country.

THOUSANDS SEE MORRISON RACES

EXTREME HEAT DID NOT KEEP ATTENDANCE DOWN THURSDAY AND TODAY.

AMBOY FAIR NEXT ATTRACTION

If Weather Man Does His Duty, Lee County Fair Will Draw Thousands.

Twenty thousand people attended the Morrison fair Thursday and word comes from that city today that the attendance is nearly fifteen thousand.

The exhibits are unusually many and interesting and the race program is one of the best for the size of the city in this section, and the many other attractions were splendid.

A rough estimate would place the number of autos at the fair yesterday at the fifteen hundred mark.

Considering the extreme heat Morrison this year pulled off the most successful fair, in point of attendance, the city ever had.

Amboy Fair Next.

But wait now until Sept. 17, the day of the opening of the Lee county fair at Amboy. Don't think for a minute that, if weather conditions are good, Amboy will not entertain many thousand people. The Amboy fair association is as yet in its infancy, but it is growing fast and in a year or two will be the great fair of this section. Every official of the association is a hustler and every minute of his time for the past month has been devoted to the cause, and fair week at Amboy will bring thousands of people into the thrifty little city of Amboy.

Don't forget the new race track there. The race program is the best that money can get. Then think of the three political days. They will help to swell the crowd.

TWO MORE SCHOOLS GETS RECOGNITION

SUPT. BLAIR GRANTS DIPLOMAS FOR STANDARD ONE-ROOM SCHOOL--SUPT. MILLER PLEASED.

County Superintendent L. W. Miller this morning received from the state superintendent's office diplomas for two more standard one-room schools in the county. The schools recognized are District 29 of which Miss Mary Tourtellott is teacher, and Wm. Dickery, Harvey Countryman and J. C. Wadsworth are directors, and District 113, Miss Blanche L. Gale teacher, and Adam Vaupel, William Sandrock and Martin Smith, directors.

SPROUL BUYS GROCERY.

Frank Sproul has purchased the A. J. Cooper grocery at 104 North Galena avenue and is now enlarging the stock and making some changes in the interior arrangement of the store. Mr. Sproul is an experienced business man and doubtless will succeed in his venture. Mr. Cooper has not formulated his plans for the future.

BIG SALE OF SAMPLE SHOES

On tomorrow, Saturday, Henry Lebowich will place on sale 1,000 pairs of ladies fine sample shoes, which were made by a large eastern firm and used by their traveling men to exhibit and take orders. Sample shoes are made better in every way, both in material and workmanship, than those made for the regular trade and the line will be sold for less than half the price you would pay for them at retail. This is without doubt the largest sale ever held in this city.

REMODELING RESIDENCE.

The Carbaugh residence on Peoria avenue is being extensively remodeled. The roof is being raised and a new and commodious porch will be added.

D. A. Anderson of Ashton was in Dixon today.

ANNUAL TAX LEVY ORDINANCE IS FILLED

WILL BE PASSED AT EARLIEST POSSIBLE MEETING OF COUNCIL.

PROVIDES FOR GENERAL TAX OF $35,829

Also Provides for Special Tax of $2080 to Pay Interest on City Building Bonds.

The annual tax levy ordinance, providing for the levying and assessment of the city taxes for the year beginning April 19, 1913, was filed yesterday with City Clerk Blake Grover, and will be passed at the earliest possible meeting of the city council.

The ordinance provides for the levying of a general tax of $35,829; special tax of $2680 to pay interest on city building bonds and to create a sinking fund to liquidate these bonds as they mature; special library tax of $2500, and general park tax of $1500.

Apportionment of Tax.

The apportionment of the general tax is as follows:
Hydrant rental $7 700
Street lighting 8 500
City bldg. maintenance 1 200
Police department 4 000
Fire department 2 500
City officials' salaries 3 129
Elections 300
Special assessments 7 500

START NEW CASES IN COURT TODAY

FANE STARTS SUIT AGAINST THE MYSTIC WORKERS OF WORLD FOR $1,000 POLICY.

Several new cases were started in the circuit court today, the attorneys filing their papers hurriedly, as today is the last day for service on cases to be tried at the September term of court, which convenes on September 16th.

The appeal cases were led in the case of the City of Dixon vs. Jacob Mayer, who was convicted by a jury in Justice Hanneken's court of conducting a house of ill-fame.

Through his attorney, W. H. Winn, Alex Sigmund has started a suit against the Sandusky-Portland Cement company for $5,000, for alleged personal injury while working at the company's plant east of this city.

Edward T. Fane, through his attorneys, Dixon & Dixon, has brought suit against the Mystic Workers of the World for $1,000, the amount of a policy held by his mother, deceased, the claim on which policy, it is alleged, the insurance order has denied.

At 2 o'clock today the docket showed 31 new cases, against 23 the last term, and 33 new chancery cases, against 28 last term.

CIRCUS ADVANCE CAR IS HERE

CONTRACTING PRESS AGENT OF HAGENBECK-WALLACE SHOWS BILLING DIXON AND VICINITY.

J. E. Eviston, contracting press agent and manager of advance car No. 1 of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus, is in Dixon today with his crew of 22 men. The crew is billing the city and surrounding territory for the big exhibition which they will give in Dixon on Friday, September 20th.

FAS AGAINST APOSTOL GOES OVER

AT 9 A. M. NEXT TUESDAY JUDGE KENT WILL TAKE UP MATTER.

The case against Nick Apostol, a foreigner who was arrested yesterday charged with threatening to kill Andrew Ferdes, a fellow workman, was continued until 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, when the fellow was arraigned before him today.

PERPLEXING SCHOOL MATTER UP AGAIN

OBJECTIONS RAISED TO SENDING SOUTH SIDE CHILDREN TO NORTH SIDE SCHOOLS.

GALENA BRIDGE OBJECTIONABLE

Property Owners in the Territory in Question Start Movement to Petition School Trustees

A movement is on foot among the property owners in the northeastern part of the city, south of the river, to petition the south side school trustees to take them into that district, thereby relieving a condition for which there is apparently no good reason, and which is a hardship on some parents and a number of school children.

When the school districts of Dixon were laid out, it is evident the natural boundary provided by the river was ignored, and accordingly a corner of district No. 23, north of the river, cuts into the territory south of the river. According to the regulations of the schools pupils residing in this little triangular piece must either send their children to the north side schools or must pay tuition for them to attend the south side schools.

No Good Reason for Condition.

No good reason for this condition can be given and there are many arguments against it. Pupils living in that little territory, which is the eastern part of the city, must walk down to the bridge and either walk across to the north side school or take a car. They are unable to get home for dinner, and the conditions are especially trying to the smaller children.

Accordingly it is proposed by these tax payers to petition the trustees of district No. 27, which is south of the river, to take that territory into the district. In accordance with school laws, after that petition is filed the trustees of the north side district will be given an opportunity to file objections, following which the trustees will decide the matter. In event of a satisfactory conclusion not being arrived at, the matter goes to the county superintendent for final decision.

Contemplated Before.

Action such as is now proposed was contemplated a number of years ago, but at that time the trustees of the north side district forestalled any action by paying the tuition in the south side schools of a number of pupils living in the territory in question.

DID NOT SURVIVE THE OPERATION

MRS. JAS. MILLER, WELL KNOWN HERE, DIED AT OMAHA HOSPITAL.

Mrs. James Miller of Kearney, Neb., died suddenly at 3 p. m. Wednesday after an operation at Omaha for ovarian tumor. Mrs. Miller was a sister of Mrs. H. Halstead and Mrs. A. C. Miller, both of this city. She is well known here. Her sisters were with her in Omaha, going there from Kearney. Mrs. Miller's death is a great shock to her friends and relatives, for the operation was apparently successful. She was a woman of beautiful character and high ideals, and her place will be hard to fill.

BLANKS ARE READY.

The proposal blanks for the use of contractors who wish to bid on the macadamizing of North Ottawa avenue and the construction of a sanitary sewer on Galena avenue and Tenth street are now ready and may be obtained at the city clerk's office.

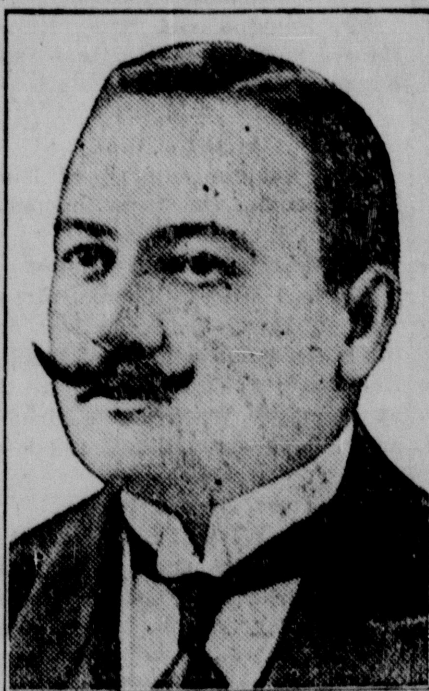

CHILD ILL.

Little Ellen Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, is very ill.

CITY CLERK AND WIFE VISIT CHICAGO

City Clerk Blake Grover and wife went to Chicago today to spend a week with relatives. During Mr. Grover's absence City Stenographer Miss Katherine McGrall will be acting city clerk.

EDUARDO SCHAEER

Eduardo Schaeer, the new president of the republic of Paraguay, is one of the strong men of that country and is counted on to give a vigorous administration.

GUS WOODYATT TOUCHED AT FAIR

DIXONITE HAS WATCH TAKEN WHILE MINGLING IN CROWD AT MORRISON FAIR.

Gus Woodyatt, while mingling in the crowd at the Morrison fair yesterday afternoon, rubbed too close to some unknown person who cruelly separated him from his watch, by taking the timepiece away from him. Gus says there's no doubt the fellow believes in taking all the time he can.

CAR STRIKE DANGER OVER

Employers Agree to Ultimatum of the Men—Peace Plans On.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—Danger of an immediate strike in the traction controversy was passed here and once again hopes of a settlement through arbitration becomes strong. A walkout was averted when, at the expiration of the 24 hours prescribed by the union leaders in their ultimatum, the heads of the surface companies met the union men in Mayor Harrison's office and announced their acceptance of the unions' demand—that there be only one board of arbitrators. Announcement of this concession by the company officials was followed by a resumption of negotiations between the leaders of the two sides in preparation for the work of arbitrating the points of difference between employers and employees.

Peter Moersbecker of Chicago was here yesterday.

J. S. Hauser went to Chicago this morning on business for the shoe factory.

The balance of the Cooper grocery stock at the north end of the bridge must be sold at any price people will offer. Wilson Ankeny.

INDICT 8 MEN IN CLINTON, IA.

GRAND JURY BRINGS 31 TRUE BILLS AGAINST OFFICIALS AND CONTRACTORS.

RAKEOFF AMOUNTS TO $100,000

Alleged Others Are Implicated in the Thefts Which Have Weakened the County Treasury.

Clinton, Ia., Sept. 6.—Special —Thirty-one indictments against three county officials, two former officials and three contractors and supply men were returned Thursday afternoon by the grand jury which has been at work since last April on the Clinton county courthouse scandal.

It is alleged that four other men are involved in the affair. These are said to have been sharers in graft in the construction of bridges and other county work.

The rakeoff from the county treasury is alleged to have been $100,000 a year and it is charged that the system has been in force for nearly a decade.

Many Charges in True Bills.

The indictments returned yesterday charge misappropriation of public funds, malfeasance in office, conspiracy and fraud. The names of the men indicted follow:

Barr, Charles E., officer of the Clinton Bridge and Iron company and president of the Iowa Cleaning company.

Hanke, Thomas E., recently resigned supervisor.

Kearney, Frank, supervisor.

McKenna, W. H., county treasurer.

Leedham, county auditor.

McLane, Thomas J., printer.

Mordhouse, Charles, former supervisor.

Wilson, George E. Jr., officer of the Clinton Bridge and Iron Co.

Messrs. Barr and Wilson, officers of the Clinton Bridge and Iron company, are well known in Dixon, having transacted business with the Lee county supervisors pertaining to the construction of bridges in this county.

CENTRAL BRAKEMAN HAS FOOT MASHED

E. F. FOESSLER, MEMBER OF WAY FREIGHT CREW, MEETS WITH ACCIDENT IN DIXON.

E. F. Foessler, a brakeman on the Illinois Central southbound way freight, had his left foot mashed under the wheels this morning while at work in the local yards. The young man was attempting to break a hard coupling when he slipped and the wheels passed over the heel of his foot. He was taken at once to the Dixon hospital, where his foot was amputated by the company physician, Dr. W. R. Parker.

SCOTT PRESIDES AT "FANS" TRIAL

CASE IN WHICH CHICAGO NATIONAL LEAGUE TEAM IS DEFENDANT.

Judge R. H. Scott of this city is presiding in the municipal court in Chicago, and yesterday heard the evidence in the case of City of Chicago vs. the Chicago National League Ball club, which is charged with having overcrowded the stands at the Cub park during the recent Chicago-New York series.

MANY USE BATHING BEACH.

The popularity of the bathing beach at the Assembly grounds is well shown by the number of people who make use of the provisions there daily. Although the season is late, from 10 to 30 visit the beach daily.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Whitebread have returned from their wedding tour and are now at home at 418 E. Seventh street.

MUSIC TOMORROW.

The Telegraph will publish tomorrow L. B. Robinson's clever song, "Happy Thoughts," as sung so successfully by Miss Ella Caros in The Great White Way.

Social Happenings

AUGUST 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25

May have a fiery temper, but it is soon over. Can be led, but not driven. Strong psychic power; energetic, as pining, have no use for mediocrity demonstrative in affection, home loving, social, devoted to family, some times pessimistic. Very popular, particularly with those near you socially. Faithful to those you love; you are fond of travel and moving about.

August 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31

Are impulsive, brilliant, intuitive, authoritative; have much natural intelligence. Generally fiery, impatient of control or dictation; are sympathetic, loving, true. Much of reverse and disappointment lies along your path. You love or hate with all your might, and if you are a housewife, you push your physical strength to the limit of endurance, and sometimes beyond.

Picnic at Lowell.

Left on Vacation.

Dr. F. D. Altman left this morning for a short vacation at Winona Lake, Ind. He is sent there by the directors of the Rock River Assembly to get in touch with some of the most successful chautauqua managers in the country who will be in conference there until Sept. 11th. The management of the Assembly here is already planning for some new and splendid features for next year. That is what Dixon desires, and this part of the state should be second to none in Assembly attractions.

50th Anniversary

Heil Brunson of Lee Center, who has been camping at the Assembly grounds, was given a delightful surprise Wednesday when forty of the members of the Odd Fellows lodge of Lee Center with their families and a few Dixon friends, came in autos and gathered at his camp and surprised him. He was fifty years old and his friends had remembered the fact.

At noon tables were spread under the trees and were laden with good things from the housewife's store. The fine dinner was heartily enjoyed by all. The day was a merry one and as a souvenir each guest was presented with a postcard of Dixon and the beautiful Rock, and the celebration of Mr. Brunson's birthday on the green banks of Rock River. At a late hour the guests departed wishing the host many happy returns of the day. Mr. Brunson has been a member of the Lee Center lodge for many years.

At Macabee Hall.

S. J. Lindsay of Oregon will preach in Macabee hall Sunday at 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Welker-Sweitzer.

At the Lutheran parsonage Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, Miss Estella R. Welker and Howard E. Sweitzer of Nelson township were united in marriage by Rev. F. D. Altman. They were attended by the father and mother of the groom and Mr. and Mrs. Gus H. Onken of Nelson. The latter is a sister of the bride. The couple left on the midnight train for a trip to the coast and to visit with a brother of the groom in the state of Idaho.

Queen Elizabeth's Pedigree.

One of the most interesting curiosities at Hatfield is the pedigree of Elizabeth, which is to be seen in the gallery. Those entrusted to make out the document wisely discovered that her descent could be traced through every important person, and especially through every beautiful person, straight back to Adam and Eve. It is on record that the Virgin Queen highly commended the work.—London Evening Standard.

England's Last Tollgate.

The distinction of being the last tollgate in England is now claimed by a gate in the Cambridgeshire Fens, one and a half miles from Chatteris, on the main road to Somersham. The gate stands in the middle of a section of about two hundred yards, once privately owned, and was erected over two hundred years ago. It was eventually purchased by a London company for $10,000.

A. E. Fest of the Hagley Candy Co., Chicago, was here yesterday on business.

PROGRESSIVES IN OHIO NAME TICKET

Arthur L. Garford Nominated for Governor—Platform Has Many Features.

JOHNSON DELIVERS SPEECH

Roosevelt's Running Mate Scores Rival Presidential Candidate—Convention Gives Governor Noisy Reception.

Columbus, O., Sept. 6.—The Progressive party has begun its active fight for the control of Ohio, President Taft's home state. In state convention here a platform, modeled on the national third party platform, was adopted, a full state ticket was nominated and Governor Johnson of California, Progressive candidate for the vice-president, characterized the president "as the most humiliating character in American history."

Arthur L. Garford, a manufacturer of Ellyria, was named for governor. Mr. Garford was a candidate for that office in the Republican state convention, but was defeated.

Other candidates were: L. T. Tabor, lieutenant governor; Charles L. Allen, auditor; John L. Sullivan, secretary of state; William Kirtley, Jr., treasurer; Robert R. Nevin, attorney general; Randolph W. Walton, congressman-at-large; E. E. Erskine and R. M. Wanamaker, judges of the supreme court.

The convention adjourned sine die after naming the full ticket.

John L. Sullivan, candidate for secretary of state, who was nominated for the same office at the Republican convention, addressed the meeting, resigning as the Republican nominee.

Planks in the Platform. Prohibition of child labor, the minimum wage of working women, prohibition of night work for women, an eight-hour day for women, an eight-hour day in continuous twenty-four-hour industries, civil service for appointive state positions, the prevention of industrial accidents and aid in the establishment of schools for industrial education were favored by the platform.

Municipal home rule, the short ballot and a non-partisan judicial ballot were praised.

Governor Johnson attended the sessions of the convention. He went into conference with James R. Garfield, Walter F. Brown and other Progressive leaders upon his arrival.

Noisy Welcome Given Him. Governor Johnson was given a noisy reception when he entered the hall and his remarks were given careful attention.

"Do not for a minute consider President Taft in this race," said Governor Johnson, in referring to the national campaign. "It is with shame as an American citizen that I say that today the most humiliating character in all American history is the president of the United States."

The Hamilton county delegates from Cincinnati, the president's home city, waved bandannas and vigorously cheered Governor Johnson's remarks.

Fills the Bill.

"A sentence with the word exposure," the teacher demanded, and a sturdy boy put up his hand. "If you fellows don't quit your grafting I'll expose," he quoted grandiloquently from the noted reform lecturer he had heard.

The Downtrodden Farmer.

An Ottawa man heard that a farmer wanted to sell a motor car. He sympathized with the poor farmer and his family because they were forced to part with the machine for financial reasons, he believed, and went out to the farm to buy it. The farmer was not at home, but his daughter was there. "I came out to buy your car," he said. "Which one?" asked the girl.—Kansas City Star.

Pleasant for the Wife.

Some time ago the wife of an assistant state officer gave a party to a lot of old maids of her town. She asked each one to bring a photo of the man who had tried to woo and wed her and had been felled by her. Each of the old maids brought a photo and they were all pictures of the same man, the hostess' husband.—Kansas City Journal.

HEADACHE UPSET? "CASCARETS"

Bilious, Throbbing Headache Means Bowels are Clogged and Liver Stagnant—You Need Cascarets.

You're bilious, you have a throbbing sensation in your head, a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, with dark rings under your eyes; your lips are parched. No wonder you feel ugly, mean and ill-tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a cleaning up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and intestines can be quickly cured by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets, because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

Fatherly Pride.
"Is he proud of his baby boy?" "Proud of him? I should say he is. Why, he spent two hours yesterday trying to imagine how he'll look in a silk hat!"

Always Bustle and Change.
It is a mistake that our times are harder and more hurried than those of our grandfathers. Every age is to itself an age of bustle and change.

Right Men Always on Hand.
One of the most striking features of the present decade is the miraculous way in which the right people have appeared to meet new needs.—Exchange Belief Deeply Rooted.

I had rather believe in fables in the Talmud and the Koran, than that this universal frame is without a mind.—Bacon.

Not So Dumb.
"Are you a friend of the dumb brutes?" "You bet I am. That's why I just hate cats and parrots."

Daily Thought.
"Love can never die. That's the present He gave to everybody."

ASK YOUR COMMERCIAL TRAVELER FRIENDS

They will tell you of a remarkable grocery store in a little Iowa town, or a hardware store in Indiana that can furnish object lessons on the art of window dressing.

A great many people know of that shop in interior Kentucky that deals in plumbing supplies, and thousands are acquainted with that shoe shop in a Michigan town that is an institution in that part of the state.

The geographical boundaries are vague as to that country in whose small towns remarkable and profitable shops are not so sible. There is no monopoly about the method, either.

Old Tree of Historic Interest.
Sir Sidney Pocock, J. P., has just disposed of his residence, Charlton Court, Shepperton-on-Thames, Middlesex, England, in the kitchen garden of which is a very old mulberry tree bearing a tablet with the following inscription: "During the reign of Charles II. a fox was hunted from Windsor park and took refuge in this tree, where it was killed. The king, who was present at the kill, expressed a wish that the tree should be preserved to commemorate the longest run on record."

Joined His First Love in Death.
After an absence of over 20 years, a former aged resident of Rainham, Kent, England, returned to the district late the other night, and, groping his way through the tombstones in the local cemetery, found the graves of his first wife and son, and there shot himself. The man, who carried on business in Great Peter street, Westminster, posted a letter from Rainham to his second wife, and his daughter, saying he had gone to join his first wife and son.

Man the Only Reasoning Animal.
Men act according to knowledge and reasoning ability. Other animals act by instinct born with them, and upon which they never improve. Birds build the same kind of nests right along. Men are always using their ability to improve their houses. Instinct is the name for the inferior kind of knowledge the lower orders of creation naturally possess. In some cases, as with dogs, horses, etc., this can be increased by careful training, or even by imitation.

Cloth Made From Seaweed.
By a process recently developed in England a very desirable cloth is made from the fiber of posidonia australis, a species of seaweed found in the southern seas. Experiments made at Manchester university show that the fiber, after treatment, is soft, pliable, strong, much like wool in its disposition to curl and twist, and easy to spin in the raw state. It takes dye well, except green.

Where the Court Erred.
Complaining at Tower bridge of her husband's conduct with two other "women-girls," a wife was told by the magistrate: "Madam, you may be married to a Don Giovanni." The applicant: "Indeed, sir, I ain't nothing of the sort!"—London Standard.

Trapped.
"Don't you love me or do you?" asked the western girl. The eastern man studied for a minute and answered: "The former." And he tried to conceal his surprise when she threw herself into his arms.—Cleveland Plain Dealer

HARMON.
D. D. Considine is having painters give his store building a coat of white paint. It was needed to give it a good appearance. Considine is one of our wideawake business men. He gets everything up in first class order and has a department store, dry goods, groceries, shoe department, a meat market and hardware all connected in three rooms so that his customers can pass through from one to the other without going out doors. They are all lighted from one plant. He also has another building where he stores his flour, which he gets by the carload.

W. H. Kugler on last Wednesday evening started for Sterling; before he got out of Harmon his automobile got a balky spell and would not go, and he was obliged to work at it for some time to get started, after which he went on his way. When he got a couple of miles of Rock Falls he was stopped, as a bridge was out. He was obliged to go through a field. He had to take a man along to guide him and when he got into the field in sand he stuck. He gave his auto more force and leaped out of that trouble.

Corn Grub Meeting.

A field meeting will be held at the Dixon Experiment station on Saturday afternoon, September 7th, at 2:30 o'clock. Mr. O. S. Fisher, the superintendent of the Northern Illinois fields, will be at the field at that time to explain the work of the experiment station. The main object of the meeting will be to discuss the corn root grub and Prof. R. D. Glasgow, assistant to Dr. S. A. Forbes, will be at the field and will discuss the corn root grub and its relation to agricultural conditions in Northern Illinois. All farmers and land owners are invited to be in attendance.

The experiment field can be reached either from Dixon or Sterling by taking the electric line from either town and getting off at the experiment field.

Character Revealed by Eye.

Gray eyes denote creative temperament, but not always honesty. What the novelists and poets term the cold gray eye is considered to be a sign of selfishness and cruelty, though it often denotes shrewdness and talent. Very clever people whose eyes are gray generally have small spots of orange in the iris round the pupil.

Double Meaning.

"Umbrellas Recovered" was a sign that attracted our attention the other day. But only for a minute! We shook our heads sadly and walked on. It would take a whole galaxy of clairvoyants and a large squad of detectives to get back a few of our lost ones.—News Letter.

Jack and Bean.

Lord St. Levan owns that romantically beautiful Cornish fastness, St. Michael's Mount. Among other legends St. Michael's Mount is supposed to have been the scene of the fairy tale of "Jack and the Beanstalk," and hence come the nicknames of "Jack" and "Bean" borne by Lord St. Levan and his next brother, Major Edward St. Aubyn.

Country Without Manufactures.

Panama has practically no manufactures. The principal exports are bananas, coconuts, hides and skins, ivory, nuts, rubber and hardwood, of which the United States receives the greater portion. More than half of the imports are furnished by the United States and consist chiefly of foodstuffs, textiles and hardware.

Fewer Holidays in Argentina.

By a decree recently issued by the Argentine government four holidays or feast days, are eliminated from the Argentine calendar. They are February 2, March 25, and the celebration of the feast of Corpus Christi (which this year fell on June 6), June 24 and September 8.

Dramatic Notes

FAMILY THEATRE

Both the new acts which opened at the Family last night for the balance of the week containing an unusual amount of good clean comedy and several good musical numbers.

Logan & Ferris appear as the Hebrew and the General and Gilroy & Correll in a scenic marine act.

NAT C. GOODWIN, IN PICTURES

Manager Godfrey of the Dixon opera house is going to follow up his excellent production, Kindling, with an attraction which, though of a different character, is equally good in its line.

He will present Nat C. Goodwin, probably the most noted actor in the country today, in Fagin, Charles Dickens' masterpiece, in motion pictures.

Mr. Goodwin in his picture play will be supported by the original company which played Fagin in the New Amsterdam theatre, New York, commemorating the 100th anniversary of the birth of Dickens, 1822-1912.

This complete motion picture production in five parts is bound to take well the two nights it will be here, Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 11 and 12. The show comes direct from a ten weeks' run at the LaSalle opera house, one of Chicago's best known playhouses.

Fred C. Wagner, local automobile agent, drove a new Mitchell Six out from Chicago last evening.

WEST BROOKLYN NEWS

In spite of the hot weather, the farmers smile, for it is the making of a big corn crop this year again.

William Bittner was in town from South Brooklyn on business Wednesday.

Subscribe for the West Brooklyn News and enjoy its splendid county news service, $1.50 a year.

It is too late to insure your horses after they are dead. Do it while it is time and insure against death from all causes. See Henry F. & Oliver Gehant, West Brooklyn, Ill.

Laurent, Louis and George Gehant were visitors in West Brooklyn Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frank of Plano visited over Sunday with their many friends and relatives in this vicinity.

A. F. Jeanguenat of Viola spent Tuesday afternoon with the citizens of our town.

Mrs. Edward Gehant of Aurora visited over Sunday with relatives and friends in West Brooklyn.

W. A. Halbmaier transacted business here Wednesday forenoon.

The auditors of the township of Viola held their meeting Monday afternoon, instead of on the following day as usual. The cause of the change of date was the Dysart estate sale near Franklin Grove Tuesday and Supervisor U. G. Dysart could not be in both places at once. We are informed that the farm sold on an average of over $200 per acre.

John Acker of Lee Center township was here on business Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Cox and family of Waterman motored to West Brooklyn Sunday for a visit with friends for the day.

G. L. Edwards was a business visitor in West Brooklyn Wednesday afternoon.

The members of the local court of Catholic Order of Forerunners were invited to Mendota Sunday to picnic with the Mendota court in a grove half a mile west of that city. Many of the boys went from here and it is needless to say all had a royal time. The members of the Mendota court are jolly fellows and had prepared most everything imaginable to satisfy the tastes of their guests. Everything was priced "Free," even to the base ball game. This was a contest worth telling about, for the West Brooklyn Court team played the Mendota Court at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and West Brooklyn won by the score of 20 to 15. It was one of those rare games which prove a real treat to a country loving audience, and we'll wager it was worth a half dollar of any man's money to see the game. Eddie Henry was the pitcher and Joe Barr caught. Oliver Gehant played first base and Chris Henkel did the same at second base. Down the line Joe Sondgeroth played short stop and John Weber was next to him at third base. In the outfield we had several men as follows: Andrew Gehant, (who by the way, was one of the star players, and who contributed very materially in helping the local team win and thereby win two cents for his wife that she had wagered on the game.) Peter Montavon, Charles Barr, and Henry Sondgeroth. Perhaps we had more fellows in the game than these mentioned but as the lineup became somewhat winded we had to rush in assistants and sometimes these came so fast that the score keeper had to work hard to keep track of them at all. Eddie Henry secured a home run during the game as did Frank Munson who played on the Mendota side. Ed's brought more real good, than the other fellow, even if Munson did score three runs and Ed's only one. Ed won the prize of a gallon of fire water offered for the first home run. Some of the local members did not attend the picnic and cannot imagine what they missed. The resolved to attend the next one. The local court contemplates a similar picnic in the grove north of town in the near future. But in the meantime don't let any of our members forget that on Thursday night, Sept. 13th is our regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. Peter Barnickel motored to West Brooklyn Tuesday afternoon.

The schools opened Sept 2nd for the term of nine months but as Monday the 2d was Labor day and a holiday, the pupils were dismissed after becoming organized. In all there are 70 pupils starting in on the first day and thirteen of these are little tots, just commencing school. The teachers are as follows:—High school—Prof. J. L. Dolan; intermediate, Anna McCormick; primary, Jennie Hammond.

Eddie Henry of east of Compton, was here visiting friends Wednesday.

Word was received from Troy Grove that a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sondgeroth Jr. last Friday. All concerned doing nicely and all happy. Mrs. Sondgeroth was formerly Miss Mary Barr of east of this city. The writer extends congratulations.

Julius Dehotel of Viola was here on business Wednesday afternoon.

St. Mary's church of West Brooklyn is to have a new pastor, according to an announcement made at the church services last Sunday by the present pastor, Rev. Edw. Berthold.

He said that he expected to make his farewell sermon next Sunday as he had a chance to go to a larger parish and probably would accept. We are told that the pastor to succeed him is coming from East Dubuque, Ill., and is of German descent. Father Berthold has been in charge of this parish for the past five years.

Henry L. and Alex Gehant were visitors here Wednesday.

Henry and Theodore Sondgeroth were here Wednesday afternoon to see the local agent at the bank regarding the loss of one of the former's valuable horses, which died on the evening before from becoming overheated. Mr. Sondgeroth has $200 insurance on the animal in the National Live Stock Ins. Co., which will make his loss easier to bear. The animal was being driven to town with a load of corn and was just as healthy as ever when the team left home. During the drive this animal became overheated and died an hour afterward. This is another proof that a person never knows when he is apt to lose his horses and that they often die when least expected.

Mrs. Chris Zimmerlein of South Brooklyn was a visitor here Tuesday evening.

Edwin visited in Dixon over Sunday.

OUR VULCANIZING WORKS

Are Now fully equipped, and we are prepared to put your Order Through Promptly.

WHAT WE DO:

Retreading—Auto tires made practically as good as new.

Henry L. and Alex Gehant were visitors here Wednesday.

Henry and Theodore Sondgeroth were here Wednesday afternoon to see the local agent at the bank regarding the loss of one of the former's valuable horses, which died on the evening before from becoming overheated. Mr. Sondgeroth has $200 insurance on the animal in the National Live Stock Ins. Co., which will make his loss easier to bear. The animal was being driven to town with a load of corn and was just as healthy as ever when the team left home. During the drive this animal became overheated and died an hour afterward. This is another proof that a person never knows when he is apt to lose his horses and that they often die when least expected.

Mrs. Chris Zimmerlein of South Brooklyn was a visitor here Tuesday evening.

Edwin visited in Dixon over Sunday.

Nick Meister of Lee Center township was here on business Wednesday afternoon.

J. W. Thier and wife and son George, and John Mahaffey went to Elgin Saturday to attend the races.

Jos. A. Vincent transacted business Wednesday afternoon.

Messrs. F. L. Oester, H. H. Danekeas, C. C. Weber and William Auchstetter went to Princeton Wednesday in the latter's auto to attend the Fair.

Charles and Joe Barr were on business Wednesday afternoon.

Barr's orchestra journeyed to Shabbona Wednesday night to play for a grand ball to be held there that night under auspices of the old settlers' association.

Messrs. Frank Knauer, C. L. Smith, F. L. Oester and Dr. E. C. White went to Dixon Tuesday in the latter's auto, to attend the Elks barbecue. They report a most enjoyable time.

John Mahaffey and George Thier were in Chicago and Sunday they ran out their Franklin auto, which had been left there a few days previous, when Mr. Thier returned home by train, instead of by the car, after making the trip across country with it.

CHAPTER XII.

Cayley's Promise.

For this small mercy Cayley thanked God. The girl did not understand. She was rubbing those sleepy eyes of hers and putting back into place, stray locks of hair that were in the way. "The foe must have gone to pieces," she said, "and they've drifted off in the fog without knowing it. I suppose there's no telling when they'll be back; very likely not for hours."

He did not risk trying to answer her. All his will power was directed to keeping the real significance of the yacht's disappearance from showing in his face.

She had turned to him quite casually for an answer, but not getting it, remained looking intently into his eyes. "Mr. Cayley," she asked presently, "were you telling me last night what you really thought was true, or were you just encouraging me—I mean about those men who attacked the yacht? Are you afraid, after all, that our people are not in possession of the Aurora, wherever she is?"

"I told you the truth last night. I can't imagine any possibility by which the men who came here on the Walrus could get the Aurora away from your people, except by stealth."

"But if our people beat them off, why didn't they come ashore? There aren't any of them around, are there?"

"Apparently not," said Cayley. "They may have all been killed before they could get back to shore, or some of them may have been captured. No, I really don't think you need worry about them."

She drew a long deep breath, flung out her arms wide, and then stretched them skyward. "What a day it is. Was there ever such a day down there in that warm green world that people live in?—Oh, I don't wonder that you love it. I wish I could fly as you do. But since I can't, for this one day you must stay down here upon the earth with me."

Her mention of his wings gave him his first faint perception of the line the struggle would take. His mind flashed for an instant into the position which her own would take when she should know the truth. To her it would not seem that they were castaways together. He was not marooned here on this shore. His ship was waiting to take him anywhere in the world. He was as free as the wind itself—

"I believe living in the sky is what makes you do that," he heard her say—"makes you drift off into trances that way, perfectly oblivious to the fact that people are asking you questions."

He met her smiling eyes, and a smile came, unbidden, into his own. "You've forgiven me already, I see," he said. "What was the question about?"

"It was about breakfast. Have you anything to eat in that bundle of yours?"

He shook his head, and she drew down her lips in mock dismay.

"Is there anything to eat anywhere?" she questioned, sweeping her arm round in a half circle, landward. "Mustn't we go hunting for a walrus or a skunk or something?"

Cayley had to turn away from her as she said that. The remorseless irony of the situation was getting beyond human endurance. The splendor of the day; the girl's holiday humor; her laughing declaration that she would not permit him to fly away; this last gay jest out of the pages of "Alice in Wonderland" about hunting for a walrus.

"God!" he whispered as he turned away—"My God!"

He had his revolver, and besides the six cartridges which the cylinder contained, there were, perhaps, 30 in his belt. For how many days, or weeks, would they avail to keep off starvation?

But his face was composed again when he turned back to her. "There are two things that come before breakfast," he said—"fire and water. There is a line of driftwood down the beach to the westward, there at the foot of the talus. When we get a fire going—" he stopped himself short. "I was going to say that we could melt some ice for drinking water, but until we have some sort of cooking utensil to melt it in, it won't do much good. There must be something of the sort in the hut here."

She shook her head. "They're completely abandoned," she told him. "Our shore party searched them first of all, and afterward Uncle Jerry and I searched them through again. There is nothing there at all, but some heaps of rubbish."

"I think I'll take a look myself," said he. "Rubbish is a relative term. What seemed no better than that yesterday afternoon while the yacht was in the harbor may take on a different meaning this morning."

He disappeared through the doorway, and two minutes later she saw him coming back with a big battered looking biscuit tin.

"Unless this leaks too fast," he said, "it will serve our purpose admirably."

He observed, without reflecting what the observation meant, that a bountiful supply of fuel was lying in great drifts along the lower slope of the talus. Jeanne accompanied him upon his quest of it, and with small doses of time and no trouble at all they collected an armful. They laid their fire upon a great flat stone in front of the hut, for the outdoor day was too fine to abandon for the dark and damp in the interior, and soon they had the fire blazing cheerfully.

For a while they sat, side by side, upon his great sheepskin, warming their fingers and watching the drip of the melting ice in the biscuit tin.

But presently Cayley got to his feet. "Breakfast!" he said.

"Is there to be anything besides a good big drink of water apiece? If there isn't, I'd rather not think about it until the yacht comes back."

"Unless I'm mistaken, there's an excellent breakfast waiting for us not far from where we got the fire-wood. But I'll go and make sure before I raise your expectations any higher."

He walked away a half-dozen paces without waiting for any reply; then, thinking suddenly of something else, he came swiftly back again.

"Do you know anything about firearms?" he asked. "If you're accustomed to shooting, I'll leave my revolver with you—No," he went on, answering the question which she had not spoken—"no, I don't foresee any danger to you. It's just on general principles."

"I'm a pretty good shot. But if you're going on a hunting expedition for our breakfast and there isn't any foreseeable danger to me in being left alone, it seems reasonable that you should take the gun."

He took the revolver from his belt, however, and held it out to her. "Our breakfast doesn't have to be shot. And as a concession to my feelings—no, it's nothing more than that—I'd rather you took it."

She did as he asked without further demur, and he went away. When she was left alone, the girl added fresh sticks to the fire, and then, in default of any more active occupation, took up the red-bound book which lay beside her and began once more to peruse its pages. She had by no means exhausted them. In her reading of the night before, she had skipped the pages of scientific description for those parts of the journal which were most purely personal. Even now the whole pages of carefully tabulated data concerning the winds, currents, temperature, and magnetic variations got scant attention. In her present mood the homeliest little adventure, the idlest diversion of a winter's day meant more to her than all her father's discoveries put together. When she saw Cayley coming back toward her across the ice, she put the book down half reluctantly.

Evidently his quest for breakfast had not been in vain; he had a big black and white bird in his hand. "Do you suppose it's fit to eat?" she called out to him. "How in the world did you manage to kill it without the revolver?"

"Fit to eat? It's a duck. What's more, it's an elder, which means that her coat is worth saving."

"But how did you contrive to kill her?"

"I didn't. She killed herself. She was flying too low last night, I suppose—going down the gale, and in the fog she went smack into the side of the cliff and broke her neck. That was a very destructive storm for the birds. There must be 50 of them, of one kind and another, lying dead there along the top of the talus, at the foot of the cliff."

"And that's what might have happened, oh, so easily, to you. Yes, it might. I've been realizing that. And I shan't forget." Her eyes had brightened, and she pressed her hands to her face for just one moment; then she straightened up briskly. "Anyway, I'll not make a scene about it now," she said. "I'll show a little practical sense and help you with the breakfast."

"No, we're camping out today, and on such occasions the men always do the cooking. Go back to your book while I skin this fowl and dress it." Then as she still hesitated, he went on: "The most beautiful garment I ever saw, anywhere, was on a Chucotte Indian girl. It was made of nothing but the breasts of these elders. But the process isn't pretty. I'd much rather you went back to your book."

Seeing that he meant it, she did as he asked. A single half page of what was written upon those closely ruled pages was enough to absorb her again completely. The power it had over her seemed to grow rather than to lessen. When Cayley came up with the big bird which was to serve for their breakfast, impaired upon a sharp stick ready to be roasted over the fire, she no more than looked up at him, with a smile very friendly, but half-appealing, and then went on with her reading. He crouched down near by her, built a little frame-work of sticks above the fire and began his cooking.

It was, perhaps, ten minutes after that when he saw the book drop suddenly from her hands. When he glanced up at her, she was looking seaward—out over those miles of plunging, heaving ice. And under his eyes, her face turned white as marble. Her bloodless lips were parted. They did not move at all and they looked as if they were frozen. He could not see that she was breathing. Her eyes were turned away from him and he was glad of that. For another moment more, at least, he need not read the look in them. For now, at last, he was sure she understood. He himself fixed his eyes upon the fire and waited.

"There's something here," she whispered, "here in this book of father's, that—that I want you to read."

It was still open at the page she had been reading when she had dropped it. With his first glance at what was written there he saw how she had come, so suddenly to understand.

"September 18th.—Field-ice came into the bay last night, just as it has come at about this season in the two preceding years—a dense fog and a whole gale blowing from the east. To me its coming is a relief. It is, in a way, the official beginning of winter. The tantalizing hope of a rescue is now put away on the shelf to wait for another summer. After all, to men in our condition a temporary hopelessness is much more comfortable than hope itself. The long winter night gives an opportunity to revive our belief that with another season of open water, rescue will come."

"I have been very busy lately stocking our larder for the next six months."

"That Gospel Begins With Breakfast," He Said.

Fortunately, I have succeeded in killing bears and walrus enough to keep us supplied. I wish I could feel as easy about our fuel. We have swept the beach clear of drift-wood, but shall have barely enough to get through the winter with. For myself, who have no real hope at all, it doesn't greatly matter. I greet the dawn of each of these interminable arctic days with intense weariness. And I never bid farewell to the sun for another winter without an involuntary "In manus Tuas."

Cayley read the entry through slowly. "I'm glad it happened this way," he said when he finished, "glad it was your father who told you. All this past hour I've been wondering how I could tell you, how I could make you understand."

The girl had been half-reclining upon the great sheepskin, her weight supported by one hand. While Cayley read, this support failed her, and she sank down, rather slowly, until her head was buried in the arms which were stretched out as if in blind supplication. She was shuddering all over.

As Cayley spoke, he covered those clasped, outstretched hands with one of his own. The touch and the sound of his voice steadied her a little.

"You've known, then, from the first?" The words came brokenly, half-voiced, muffled.

He bent down over her to hear them. "Yes, I knew from the first."

He said no more than that just then, but remained as he was, his hand covering her two, holding them tight, his body bending over hers protectively.

After a little while she ceased shuddering, and answered the pressure of his hand with a sudden clasp of her two; then drew them away again and sat erect.

Her eyes, when they rose to his face, were still wide with fear—a deeper-seated fear, really, than her first momentary panic. But now she had it in control and spoke steadily enough.

"There is no chance at all, do you think?"

"For the Aurora to come back? No, not this season, at least; no possible chance. And—how much ammunition have you, Mr. Cayley?"

"Thirty-one cartridges, besides the ones in the revolver."

He would have said something more, but with a little gesture she prevented him. "You've been thinking it out," she said. "You know what it means now, and I—I feel that I don't. I can't quite realize it yet. You must give me a little time to think, too."

He had to assent to that, though he knew, in advance, the direction her thoughts must take, and foresaw the dreadful conclusion of them. And the answer he had to make to that conclusion? Well, he had it ready.

How long that silence lasted, neither of them knew. He sat there beside her, and yet even his eyes allowed her perfect solitude. He mended the fire and attended to his cooking as quietly as before, when the girl was reading.

Finally a little move of hers, preparatory to speech, gave him leave to look at her. In those silent minutes, however long they were, her face had changed. It was grave now, intensely thoughtful, but the color had come back into it. It was alive again.

"When I asked you a while ago if there were any chance, you asked me if I meant a chance for the return of the Aurora, and said there was none. That was what I meant then, but it's not what I mean now. Is there any chance at all? I haven't been able to see any myself, and I've been over it all pretty carefully. Do you see any? You—you must tell me the truth, please."

"I haven't been trying to assess the chances. I spent my hour thinking about something else, and I can't answer your question really with a yes or a no."

"Not with a yes, but can't you answer it with a no? Aren't you perfectly sure, in your heart, that there's no chance at all?"

"Not yet," he answered. "There may be a chance, and if there is, we can meet it half way." Then he stretched out his hand. "That red-bound book there is my Bible now. Do you remember what your father said? 'We can live like Christians, and we can always hope.' He thought, when he put that bottle, which contained his message, into the sea, that there was hardly one chance in a million of its resulting in an effectual relief. Yet he went on living as a brave man lives, a day at a time. And when he died, he died without fear. Doing that, he not only helped himself, but he helps us in a way that he couldn't possibly have foreseen."

Her eyes filled suddenly with tears, and a smile, of a divine sad tenderness, touched for an instant her mouth. "But that isn't our case, you know. Ours isn't as simple as that."

"What makes the difference?" But he knew the answer.

"Your wings." She said it hardly above a whisper, and as she said it she turned a little paler and her brave lips trembled. But in an instant her will had taken command again. "I am sure you see. It's quite plain," she went on steadily. "If you will spread them, those great wings of yours, and take to the air with them, and fly away, as you are free to do, and leave me here alone, as I really am alone, the only person marooned here—if you'll do that, then I'll follow my father's gospel—But you won't go away. You can't—not a man like you, and I know that. I know I mustn't even suggest it."

Her voice sank again and grew unsteady. "While I am starving, you will be starving, too. And while I am freezing, you will freeze." She stopped there with a shudder and a deep, gasping sob; then, "Won't you go?" she cried out. "You said once that one of us might be dreaming, but that one was not I. Can't you believe it's so? Can't you wake up from the dream that is turning into a nightmare, and fly away?—No, you can't! You can't!—There is only one way out of it!"

There was the conclusion he had foreseen, had foreseen long before he could formulate it—the inevitable conclusion that had led him to pray for an hour. And now he thanked God that the answer was ready.

But before he could speak she turned to him with a sudden transition of mood, which left him gasping. The face she turned upon him now was radiant, flushed with life, fearless. She held out both hands to him. "Come," she said; "that's over. You're to forget it ever happened, and you're to do something for me that I want. Will you? I want this for a holiday, just as I set out to make it when I saw the yacht was gone. The day's as bright as it was then, and we can make the hours pure gold. It all depends on us. Come, will you do that for me?"

Giving him her hands, she had meant him to assist her to rise, but he disregarded the intention and knelt on one knee beside her. "Jeanne," he said.

Her color fluttered like a flag at that, and she caught her breath. "Thank you—Philip!"

"We'll have our holiday, Jeanne, but we must have a better understanding first."

"No! No more!—I can't!"

But he went steadily on: "You said there was only one way out, and I knew what you meant. It is a way out—a way that I can't deny your right to take, if we're talking of rights. During the five years that I spent at Sandoval I always regarded it as a right that I could exercise when I chose. Perhaps that is one of the reasons I never exercised it. But, Jeanne, if you elect to take that way, I shall take it with you."

She struggled away from him, turned and faced him with horror-stricken eyes. "You must not say that! You've no right to threaten me with that! No right!" Then, clutching at his hands again, "You must promise!"

Again she pulled her hands away and covered her face with them. She was trembling uncontrollably.

"It was not a threat," he said steadily. "It was a promise, a promise I have the right to make. I make it again, now, Jeanne—a solemn promise before God. Whether it's living or dying, I shall go beside you."

"No right!" she repeated in a whisper. "What possible right could you have to make a promise like that—a threat that calls itself a promise?"

"I have the only right there is. Listen. Last night, when you were lying there asleep, I sat thinking, thinking about you, about the love I had for you; about the change which that love had made in me and would go on making after I had lost you. For I faced losing you. I knew that when they sent a boat ashore for you, I should have to let you go without a word. If I could have heard a prophecy then, that today I should be telling you I loved you, telling it with a clear heart and conscience, I should have gone half-mad for joy. It seemed as if the thing could never happen. I am a man with a stain upon me, and yesterday that stain made it impossible to say anything to you but goodbye. I meant to say it, and take my way through the air again and live out the rest of my life on what, from your bounty, you had already given me."

"But the coming of a new day has changed all that. It has given me the right to tell you what I have told you, and it gives me the right to make that promise. Isn't that quite plain? Don't you understand?"

"I must think," she gasped. "You must let me think."

"No," he said. "I have not asked for an answer. There is nothing that you have to tell me. Nothing that I'm waiting to hear. No decision that you must make. You understand what I said and you know it's true. The supreme fact in my universe is just you. That gives me the right to follow you wherever you go. But you are still free. You can stay here, where Fate has put you, and let me stay here, too, being sure that all the happiness in the world there is for me to be found here at your side, in helping you. And then if the torture of privation, loneliness and despair become too hard—"

She turned to him then and interrupted. Her words came quietly, unaccompanied by any gesture of her expressive hands. She spoke with the utmost simplicity.

"They won't be too hard, I think—neither the privation nor the loneliness. There won't be any despair—not with you, my friend. And—and we will follow my father's gospel."

She saw the blood go ebbing out of his face, and then came back with a surge. He drew in two or three great breaths of the keen, winelike air. Then, in a strangely matter-of-fact fashion, he seated himself beside her. "That gospel begins with breakfast," he said.

Takes Lauria From Brooklyn.
"Don't call Brooklyn the City of churches," says a Globe Trotter, who is equally familiar with the Hudson,
the Rhine, the Ganges and the Nile.
There is a city in India which is looked upon as "holy" by Buddhists and Brahmins which might dispute the title. Benares has about 2,000 temples and in these and fixed in the narrow streets where the public is free to worship are about 500,000 idols. According to Hindoo belief, it is the gate to paradise, to which all who dwell within its walls enter immediately.

Dedicated Burial Vault.
In a dilapidated old vault in a churchyard in Philadelphia, containing the bones of some colonial man or maiden, a group of roystering men were found the other night, laughing, talking, smoking and shooting "craps."
The vault in which they sat was the oldest in Old Trinity and it is falling into decay. For more than a week residents of the neighborhood had heard uncanny sounds emanating from the churchyard after midnight, and the place was believed to be "haunted."

World's Debt to Books.
How safely we lay bare the poverty of human ignorance to books without feeling any shame. They are masters who instruct us without rod or ferule, without angry words, without clothes or money. If we come to them they are not asleep; if you ask and inquire of them they do not withdraw themselves; they do not chide you if you make mistakes; they do not laugh at you if you are ignorant.—Richard De Bury.

Seized by an Eagle.
A huge eagle swooped down on the home of a Westport, Conn., man a few days ago and seized Anna, his two-year-old daughter, in its talons and attempted to fly away with her. The screams of the child brought the father to the yard. The bird then dropped the little one, and the father seized her and ran into the house. The little girl's clothes were torn by the bird's talons, but she was not even scratched.

Original Woman Suffragist.
A modern historian makes the claim that Congru Hrolf, the mighty Viking, who afterward became the first duke of Normandy and the progenitor of William the Conqueror, was the original woman suffragist, and that it was this valiant Norseman who sounded the first clarion call for women's rights ten centuries ago.

Best Disinfectant.
Sunshine is the best possible disinfectant. The rays of the sun penetrate and disintegrate all organic substances. Let it flood the rooms which are occupied whenever it is possible.
Lay the bedding in its direct rays for an hour every bright morning. Dark corners that have a stuffy smell are dangerous to the health of the household.

Right Doing.
Practical duty enriches the fancy and the heart, and action clears and deepens the affections. No one can have a true idea of right until he does it, any genuine reverence for it till he has done it often and with cost, any peace ineffable in it till he does it always and with alacrity.—J. Martineau.

Let Little Sulphur From Sicily.
Immense quantities of sulphur are mined in Louisiana by pumping, and the result is that Sicily exports very little sulphur to this country, although seven or eight years ago it sent more than one hundred thousand tons per annum.

Nothing on Him.
First Chicago Child—"My father is connected with some of the best families in town." Second Chicago Child —"Poo! That's nothing. My father is separated from three of them."—Life.

Well to Learn Our Parts.
All through life we have to act; so the sooner we learn some of the parts that will fall to us—hero, modest helper, accepted or rejected lover—the better we shall conduct ourselves.

Very Old Text-Book of Health.
It is said there are 285 verses in the Old Testament and 240 in the New Testament relating to disease, sickness, their causes, treatment and prevention.

Man's Face.
Parisians are concerned about the question of wearing mustaches and beards, the tendency being to part with these long-honored ornaments.

For Sale—Edison phonograph; also a heater and a cemetery lot; cheap.

Poor Rich.
Sometimes poverty consists in just feeding the poor. Half the millionaires in the country don't know how much they are worth.—Atlantic Constitution.

Drawing the Line.
Patriotism is our proudest passion, but we refuse to let it induce us to wear a certain sort of hat in the interest of any candidate.—Atchison Globe.

GEN. MAC ARTHUR DIES

IS SUDDENLY STRICKEN WITH ACUTE INDIGESTION.

Former Commander-in-Chief of Army
Succumbs While Speaking at Reunion of Old Regiment.

Milwaukee, Sept. 6.—Gen. Arthur MacArthur, retired, former commander-in-chief of the army, was suddenly stricken with acute indigestion while speaking at the reunion of his old regiment, the Twenty-ninth Wisconsin, late last night.

He had been in ill health, the heat was intense, and he sank back in his chair, saying he couldn't continue.
He lapsed into unconsciousness and died in a few minutes.

General MacArthur was born in Massachusetts and served through the Civil war. He was brevetted Lieutenant colonel and colonel for gallantry in the battles of Perryville, Stone River, Missionary Ridge, Dandridge and Franklin, Tenn., and in the Atlanta campaign. Congress presented him with a medal for bravery at Missionary Ridge. He was the commander of a division in the Philippines and later commanded the department of the lakes.

ANGRY MOB LYNCHES NEGRO

Body of Assailant of White Girl Is Riddled With Thousands of Bullets.

Bluefield, W. Va., Sept. 6.—When they were informed that troops from the strike section along Paint creek would be rushed to the scene by Governor Glasscock, the mob of nearly 800 angry men heavily armed who stormed the Princeton jail Wednesday and took Walter Johnson, negro, accused of assaulting a young white girl, from his cell and have since had him in their custody, just at midnight last night lynched their prisoner. The negro was hung to a tall tree and while in a dying condition his body was literally torn to small pieces by being pierced by thousands of shots from Winchester rifles fired by the mob.

French Envoy Injured.
Montfort, France, Sept. 6.—Camille Barrere, French ambassador to Rome, was badly injured in a collision between two automobiles near here. One man in the party was killed and another probably fatally injured.

30,000 VOICES!

And Many Are The Voices of Dixon
People

Thirty thousand voices — what a grand chorus! And that's the number of American men and women who are publicly praising Doan's Kidney Pills for relief from backache, kidney and bladder ills. They say it to friends. They tell it in the homes papers. Dixon people are in this chorus. Here's a Dixon case.

Mrs. Emile Bott, 811 College Ave
Dixon, Ill., says, "We recommend Doan's Kidney Pills just as highly now as we did some years ago when we first gave a public statement in their praise. I was rheumatic and most of the pain was through my back and kidneys. At night I didn't sleep well and in the morning was all tired out. I was also nervous and dizzy and my kidneys were out of order. I tried different remedies but was not helped until I used Doan's Kidney Pills which I got at Leake
Bros. Co.'s Drug Store. They made me strong and well."

NEWS OF ILLINOIS

A Telegraphic Chronicle of State Happenings.

BENDEN IS ELECTED HEAD

Capital City Pastor Is Chosen President of the Pastoral Union of the Springfield Baptist Association.

Springfield, Sept. 6.—Rev. E. E. Benden, pastor of Elliott Avenue church, Springfield, was elected president of the Pastoral union of the Springfield Baptist association, which held its annual meeting here. Rev. William Cozard of Decatur was elected secretary and Rev. J. J. Howard of Arona will preach the annual sermon. Rev. T. T. Ketman of Chicago spoke on the work of the publication of the denomination. He said that the business end of the society last year turned over $60,000 to the mission department.

Lake County's Fair Opened.
Libertyville, Sept. 6.—Lake county's fifty-ninth annual fair opened before a small crowd. The program was not up to former years, only two trotting races and a couple of running events being carded. The first race was for local horses, bred and owned in Lake county. Four started in the race, Waukegan being represented by three and Bow Belle, owned by John Hanlon, carrying Libertyville colors. A purse of $300 was the prize in the 2:25 trot, which had only five starters. Four of the horses were from the Chicago West Side track, while George Vogel had the bay gelding Barney Oldfield from Solon Mills to keep down the Chicago flavor. Mount Ross, a roan son of Cecilian, driven by John Rowe, looked the best in this class, although Irish Lad was conceded a good chance, provided he was on his good behavior.

Methodists Meet in Moline.
Moline, Sept. 6.—The annual meeting of the Central District Swedish Methodist conference opened. Bishop McDowell of Chicago presiding. Conference officers were elected as follows:

Secretary—Erick B. Swan, Chicago.
Assistant—A. J. Sandberg, Bonaven.
Swedish Secretary—John Lundeen, Chicago.

Statistical Secretary—J. P. Miller, Chicago.
Treasurer—W. C. Bloomquist, Chicago.

Appointments of pastors for the year will be made before the conference adjourns.

Woodmen Oppose Reserve.
Springfield, Sept. 6.—Insurgent Woodmen are not waging a battle against the proposed new rates but are opposed to the plan to make assessments for reserve purposes each month, whether or not the money is needed to meet death benefits. This assertion was made at the hearing before Judge Robert B. Shirley in which insurgents seek an injunction restraining the officers of the Modern Woodmen of America from putting into effect the proposed new rate.

Man's Body Burns on Wires.
Elgin, Sept. 6.—For twelve minutes after he had been killed by a short circuit of high voltage electric feed wires on a 50-foot pole, the body of George Duhenhofer, a lineman, dangled in the air from a mesh of wires with his flesh and clothing ablaze. It was necessary to call the fire department to lower the body.

Pana Miners Strike.
Decatur, Sept. 6.—Almost a thousand miners employed in the four coal mines at Pana, one of the largest mining towns of the state, went out on strike on orders from a sub-district official, who states the operators are not keeping their part of the agreement recently made.

Body Is Found in Lake.
Waukegan, Sept. 6.—The body of a well-dressed man, fifty years of age, was found on the lake shore. He was about six feet tall and had much gold bridge work in his mouth. It is believed he is the victim of a steamboat tragedy. He appeared to have been in the water two months.

Life Insurance Men Convene.
Chicago, Sept. 6.—Five hundred men from the United States and Canada, representing 88 life insurance companies of western and southern states, with a business in 1911 of $1,323,309,999, attended the annual meeting of the American Life Insurance convention here.

Herrin Railroad Builder Dies.
Herrin, Sept. 6.—Patrick McCann, president of Herrin Commercial club, dropped dead from apoplexy at St. Mary's hospital in Cairo, where he was being treated. He was head of the McCann Construction company and had built many railroads in this end of the state.

Dedicate Sterling Church.
Sterling, Sept. 6.—Bishop Muldoon laid the cornerstone of St. Flannan's Catholic church here, built at a cost of $35,000, to replace the edifice burned Christmas.

Fear of Disease Causes Suicide.
Mount Vernon, Sept. 6.—Dread of tuberculosis is believed to be the reason for Miss Myrtle Wersick of Cynthia committing suicide with carbolic acid.
